

7260 News, Winter 2000

Changes Set at Century City Shopping Center

Pottery Barn, as previously reported has outgrown its space and is adding to its operation the space formerly occupied by Martin Lawrence. The addition will expand the store's space from 4,500 sq. ft. to 7,300 square feet, a cut of 500 sq. ft. from what Pottery Barn had originally intended.

Rolled Links, the hot dog stand, has closed and made room Mustards, another hot dog stand, which features a variety of international type sausages. Mustards' proprietor is former 7260 vice-president Richard Smith, who also watches over South Seas, the Courtyard Cafe and Yogurt Shop.

Sorabel, a Korean barbecue and noodle shop operated by one of San Francisco's more popular chefs, Young Ran Hong, is replacing Chez Gourmet in the Marketplace.

Oroton now occupies the former Wild Pair space. The firm, whose home office is based in Sydney, Australia, specializes in women's high quality leather goods including, hand bags, briefcases, and portfolios.
