

7260 News, June 2000

JMB Files for Building Permit for Century City Hi-Rise

In mid-May, JMB, the developer of Constellation Place, the proposed 38 story Century City hi-rise, filed for a building permit for the 704,000 square foot project. Although construction of Constellation Place could start as early as fall, a JMB official says that a more likely start date is the end of this year or the beginning of the next.

The official said that much of the building probably would be leased to a movie studio and to another major tenant.